Fjeld Named NCC Employee of the Year

Tara Fjeld, Assistant - Registrar, received the Outstanding Employee Award at the Northwest Iowa Community College Employee Awards Ceremony on December 18, 2015.

Fjeld has worked at the College for the past seventeen years in the Registrar's Office. She was chosen for the outstanding employee award because of her service to NCC, its students, staff and faculty, as well as performance of duties, commitment to personal or professional development, and team/committee participation.

Some comments from the nomination forms about Fjeld were: "Tara has long had the trust and respect of students, parents, and faculty on the Northwest Iowa Community College campus. It has been well known that during her 17 years as a school registrar assistant, Tara has excelled at doing just what her job title indicates providing guidance to young people and co-workers on how to prepare and register for college classes." Other comments submitted were, "When we think of performance beyond average we believe it's about connecting with people. Tara has a passion for students and co-workers. Whether it is through registration of a student or assisting a co-worker Tara makes an effort to help others achieve their goal. She assists with several activities on campus from Family Day, Orientation, Graduation Prep, Commencement, and the High School Art Show."

Fjeld now has the opportunity to attend one approved professional development activity with expenses paid by the College or $100 in credit to the NCC College Store.

Fjeld resides in Sheldon, IA, with her husband, Dean and children, Tyler, Tori, and Tanner.
