NORTHWEST IOWA COMMUNITY COLLEGE SEEKS GIFTS OF GRAIN

Northwest Iowa Community College is encouraging people in the agricultural field to consider donating Gifts of Grain to the NCC Foundation. By doing this simple donation, not only will the donor benefit with a tax-deduction, but students at Northwest Iowa Community College benefit as all donations will go towards scholarships for NCC students.

Rich Ridders, Certified Public Account with Kroese and Kroese in Sioux Center, agrees with the dual benefit of donating to Gifts of Grain. "Gifts of Grain provide farmers with an opportune and unique way to help fund scholarships for NCC students. Farmers can realize significant federal, state and self-employment tax savings by gifting grain to NCC. This can be much more beneficial than selling the grain and making a cash contribution. Production costs are still deducted and you do not have to itemize to benefit from your gift."

If you are interested in donating grain, please let your elevator know as you are bringing in your crops. If you have questions about the Gifts of Grain option, or would like to explore other alternatives to donate to the NCC Foundation, please contact NCC at 800-352-4907 ext. 125.
