Northwest Iowa Community College Industrial Instrumentation & Control Students Win 2nd in the District ISA Competition

Northwest Iowa Community College's Industrial Instrumentation and Control (IIC) students took home second place at the District 6 Instrumentation Systems and Automation (ISA) competition held in Bismarck, ND on April 20, 2017.

Students on the 2nd place team include: Andrew Pratt, Kingsley, IA; Joe De Jong, Sheldon, IA; Jordan Koele, Hull, IA; Kirk Prostrollo, Boyden, IA.

District competitions are held between Colleges including technical/community colleges and Universities in a 6-state area in the field of Instrumentation and Control. The students compete in hands-on practical exercises working with instrumentation equipment and an exercise working with electrical control equipment.

There were a total of 6 teams from four colleges competing this year. The colleges were: North Dakota State College of Science, Wahpeton, ND; Wisconsin Indianhead Technical College, Shell Lake, WI; Bismarck State College, Bismarck, ND and Northwest Iowa Community College, Sheldon, IA.

This competition provides an opportunity for ISA Student Members to demonstrate and further their knowledge of automation and control technologies, while enjoying the camaraderie and fun of the competition.
