Krull Receives Northwest Iowa Community College Outstanding Faculty Award

Byron Krull, Electrical Instructor at Northwest Iowa Community College, was awarded the Outstanding Faculty Award during commencement ceremonies on May 13, 2016. Krull was presented the award by Dr. John Hartog, Vice President of Student & Academic Services.

Krull, who has been with the college for ten years, was nominated for the award by one of his Industrial & Commercial Wiring students, Aaron J. Brodersen. In the nomination form Brodersen wrote, “Byron is always willing to assist students when problems arise not just by stating the answer, but helping the student get to the solution on their own. Which makes the student’s experience at NCC even more valuable.” Brodersen went on to write, “Byron not only explains procedures and practices thoroughly in a lecture format, but has taken the initiative to create several instructional videos for students to view at any time now or for future reference.”

The Faculty of the Year award is awarded based on faculty exemplary instruction and service to the College and its students. The four categories considered are: excellence or innovation in teaching; performance beyond average; commitment to personal/professional development; and team/committee participation. In addition to a glass trophy, Krull will receive the opportunity to attend an educational conference of his choice with expenses paid by the College.

Krull is a resident of George, Iowa
